TEACHING

Throughout my career I have been heavily involved in regular educational meetings such as journal clubs and departmental meetings. I have also been involved in the organisation of some of these meetings. During my work in Leicester and Manchester I was involved in teaching the medical students during their orthopaedic placement.

I was an examiner for OSCE part in the 5th year medical school of Manchester University. Moreover, one of the most enjoyable and fulfilling aspects of every job since qualification has been the opportunity for undergraduate medical student teaching. This has mainly involved teaching clinical skills and history taking on the wards.
